Brimming with history and ready for revival, this commercial building circa 1915 has seen better days but still holds undeniable charm. Once home to a drug store and dentist's office, the structure is in notable disrepair, requiring significant restoration. That said, its original architectural character remains visible beneath the wear, offering a blank canvas for those with vision and grit. Whether you're dreaming of a cozy café, a unique retail space, or a creative office conversion, this diamond-in-the-rough presents an exciting opportunity to breathe new life into a piece of the past.
