This 11-unit self storage property offers a rare opportunity at an affordable price point. Currently non-operating, the site provides a blank slate for an investor or entrepreneur ready to bring it back to life. With existing structures already in place and room for expansion, the property is primed to grow into a steady income-producing self storage business. Alternatively, for those seeking a different vision, the site presents the option to clear and start fresh building a residence or other use tailored to your needs. Whether you choose to operate and expand the storage facility or reimagine the property altogether, this is a low-entry investment with plenty of potential.
