What a cute house! If you're buying your first house, looking just to move or downsizing this could be the one. The large living room has a wood burning fireplace waiting to be lit on those cozy nights. I think the kitchen will surprise you the most with all the cabinets, counter top space and storage that's available. There's a pantry and the laundry room is right next to the back door which makes it easy to get those muddy clothes off and not track up the house. The bedrooms are a nice size with good closet space. Outside there's a special spot that is the star of the house! You'll fall in love with the 10.9 x 10.6 Pergola! This will be where you will entertain family and friends or just relax after a long day. The house is just waiting on the next family to call it home! Did I mention it did not flood and is in Flood zone X? The roof is 7 years old and in great condition. Schedule your private showing!
